At the University of Colorado Boulder, Dr. Orit Peleg leads an interdisciplinary research group that studies how signals in nature form patterns across time and space. The lab studies how signals in nature form patterns across time and space, exploring how organisms communicate, coordinate, and respond. Using model systems like fireflies and honeybee swarms, their work examines how information travels—through light, movement, and pheromones—across living systems.

Tessa Moore is a composer, audio engineer, and multi-instrumentalist with over a decade of professional experience. A graduate of the University of Illinois and NYU, she has worked on major film and television projects including Ray Donovan, The Affair, and Dark Waters, and with Emmy-winning composers Marcelo Zarvos and Troy Herion. Her work spans genres, with concert music performed by ensembles across the country.
